Precious in His Sight

*Drifting, falling, gently landing
 On the coat of one girl standing.
 On a winter moonlit night;
 Snowflakes dancing in the light.

Watching closely as they lay,
 She stood in awe of what God made.
 Each a masterpiece so small,
 Yet the Lord sees each one fall.

Delicate and formed with love,
 A gift to us from God above.
 He takes the time to make each one
 For our pleasure, for our fun.

If He should care enough to make
 Each and every little flake,
 Then how precious in His sight
 Is one girl standing in the night?
